SPECIAL PROMO FOR IMPELLER INSPECTION MONTH

Flexible impellers for inboard engine cooling pumps should be inspected once a year or every 250 hours, whichever comes first. But JMP Marine contends that since this requires everything be taken apart, why not simply replace? It's inexpensive insurance to ensure a boat stays in top running condition throughout the season. Now, the company is offering 20% off its high-quality replacement impellers when purchased through its wide distributor network.

"When an impeller fails and the engine overheats, expensive damage can be done very quickly," said Chan "CJ" Jeon, JMP Corporation manager. "Simply replacing this inexpensive part once a year helps keep people safe on the water, without the headaches of mechanical trouble."

JMP manufactures its quality replacement flexible impellers using a unique, long-lasting rubber blend that resists salt, oil and heat. Available for a wide range of manufacturers' pumps, they start at $17 retail and come with a 1-year warranty.

Buyers must use the code "JMP40" to receive the discount. The promotion runs from April 1 through May 31, 2017. A list of distributors is at www.jmpusamarine.com/jmp-network/distributors.
